

The invention relates to a system for changing the communication means used for communication between two software agents. Each software agent includes:

- 10